

The Come On Girl

Written by G. Pichler

Verse I

With her bikini on, she's got the East Coast tan
She just might give you the eye, if you understand
That when the sun goes down, you'll find her parents' van
She's the come on girl, you know she never shows her age.

Verse II

When her mom slips away, out cruisin' the stores
She'll be sipping the sun at the party next door
And when the telephone rings she'll be picked up off the floor
She's the come on girl, she's just looking for that one mistake

Bridge

Take a minute just to understand, you can't wait to be a woman
Learn what it takes to read between the lines, Just listen you got time

Verse III

She'll spend the weekend at home. In her room she will stay.
'til she's put on the stand, she's told she's gone astray
But when her parents step out, she'll be with that boy the very next day
She's the come on girl, she'll make you tired when you just awake

She's the come on girl, she'll make you tired when you just awake
